ISOC Summer Camp 2016 Program Information

The summer break is an exciting time for families. Children have worked hard to fulfil the obligations of their school curriculum and rightfully deserve an extended break. This year's summer camp will contain engaging activities and workshops to keep your children entertained in an educational and Islamic environment. The children will enjoy their time with other children and volunteers from the community developing leadership and teamwork skills.

The daily schedule will include:

- A hands-on workshop
- A small activity that develops and enhances life skills
- A short period of Quran and Islamic Studies classes
- Organized sports and physical activities
- Lunch and snack time
- Emphasis to Islamic etiquettes and manners will be incorporated throughout the day
- A field trip once a week (all events are included in the fees)

The highlight of everyday will be a hands-on workshop conducted by local and guest educators. The workshop will be based on academic or Islamic themes including: Art, Science, Literacy, Islamic Stories etc.

There will also be a community BBQ with family activities on the final day of the camp, August 4.

A detailed calendar containing the activities, field-trips and workshops will be given before the start of the camp, insha'Allah.

The camp will be coordinated by Fuad Gaya, an Elementary school teacher at ISOC, Huda Al-Nadvi, a licensed and experienced Early Childhood Educator, and volunteers and members from the community.
